Albums:

Many of my packages come with Albums. I like albums. They are more difficult to loose than little prints & the variety of images more adeptly tell your story. The only draw-back for albums is that they take time to setup, so I have 2 ways of pricing them. It's not complicated once I explain the logic, so here goes:

If an album comes with the package my client orders, then all additional albums of the same size, page count & cover (whether they're ordered by your mother or your Great-Aunt Sally) are sold at a reduced fee, since the time I've taken to uniquely design the album has already been covered.

However, if my client does not purchase a package with an album, when Great-Aunt Sally wants an album, I have to charge her for the time it takes me to design the album. Or, a more likely example, if you decided to forgo a package with an album, but later decide that you actually wanted one, I'll have to design it for you before we can order & a fee to cover my time is applied to the album. An additional fee may also be added if a unique cover type, page count, or album size is requested.

So, the first album (in the package or not), has an additional fee to help pay for the time it takes to personally design the album. Then, any additional albums, with the same design as the original, come at the reduced price. Make sense? I hope so! If not, let me know & I'll try again!

Announcements:

Includes Save the Dates, Invitations, or Thank You Notes for Weddings, Graduation Announcements for Seniors, Birth Announcements or Holiday Cards for Children or Families or any other combination you'd like. Custom announcements are a unique & personal way to let your family & friends know what's happening in your life & that they're invited to join you (as the case may be).

My announcements, like the albums, do require a setup fee for your unique design. However, the pricing is a little different, since I assume your Great Aunt Sally won't want to order 100 Save the Dates (or Senior Announcements, but you get the idea). In this case, it's more likely that you'll want to order 200 or 250 or even 500 instead of only 100. If this is the case & you buy a package with 100 announcements included, then you only need to pay the fee for the extra announcements (it averages about $225 per 100-5x7s, including envelopes, but if you get to 500 or more, a quantity reduction kicks in, so let me know).

Finally, if you're not sure if you want a custom design or simply want to see what I do, and you know some visual samples will help, head on over to my blog & click the visual samples at the top, then check out some photos of albums, sample setups & more.
